

...Picture frame
Perfect for framing an outdoor art masterpiece.

...Sketcher
Turn a blank mud canvas into an outdoor masterpiece – use a stick to draw pictures and patterns or write messages in mud.

...Journey stick

Take pieces of brightly coloured wool on your next trip to the woods. Find a stick at the start of your adventure and tie different bits of wool around different bits of the stick to help you remember what you found, saw and heard. Tuck leaves, feathers, petals and other treasures into the wool too. It makes a brilliant keepsake and helps you remember your visit so you can tell others all about it.

...Game

Use sticks to make a grid for woodland noughts and crosses. Use more sticks to create the noughts and crosses, or use pine cones, leaves or flowers instead.

...Twig tower

Collect sticks from the woodland floor and layer them on top of each other to see how high you can build a towering twig tower!

...Marshmallow fork

Perfect for toasting sticky, gooey marshmallows over a campfire.

...Wind chime

Ancient Celtic tribes used to make wind chimes to scare their enemies into believing the woods were haunted by ghosts! Now most people enjoy the soothing sound they make instead. Hang sticks of different lengths and thicknesses from a branch and listen to them gently knock against each other in the breeze.

...Fetching stick

Perfect for playing with the family dog :O)

...Stick man

Use sticks for the body, leaves and grass for hair and clothes, and seeds for eyes, noses and ears.

...Catapult

Find a strong forked twig. Snip one side of an elastic band to make one straight piece of stretchy elastic and tie it to your stick. Hunt for soft ammunition like berries or rolled up balls of grass then ping them at pine cones lined up in a row. (Never fire at people or animals.)

It looks like a stick, it feels like a stick, but it's actually a...

...Stirrer

For mud soups, flower petal perfumes or magic potions.

...Pair of antlers

Pretend you're a stag living in the woods. Find some sticks that look like antlers and hold them up to your head, then leap gracefully through the woods.

...Sculpture

Use sticks, leaves, seeds and petals to make fantastic outdoor sculptures, from animals to woven structures. What will you make?

...An important sign

Use sticks to make a trail for your friends to follow through the woods. Or make up a secret code of arrows, crosses and other symbols.

...Den

Sticks are the building blocks of dens! Use big sticks to make a den large enough for people to shelter in, or use little sticks to make a teeny tiny den for minibeasts.

...Pooh stick

Remember the game invented by Winnie-the-Pooh? You and your friends drop sticks from one side of a bridge over a stream or river. Then quickly race to the other side to see whose stick emerges from under the bridge first! (Make sure you work out which way the water is flowing or your stick will go the wrong way :O)

...Magical divining stick

Use your stick as a map – use the bumps, twists and knobby bits on your stick to direct you through the woods to a secret, magical place

...Magic wand

For casting spells or freezing people in place!

...Broomstick

Collect a bunch of small, thin twigs and tie them to a much bigger, straight stick with string or sticky tape. Perfect for flying off in the moonlight or playing Quidditch!

...Twirling mobile

Make a woodland mobile to hang from the trees using sticks, leaves, autumn seeds and wool.
